File Access APIs See File API for more File Flow Information V0.5.0 We add Writestream and Readstream, which allows your app to read / write file path data. Download for storage directly if the big response data are large, that would be a motive idea to convert them to String Base64. The files will not be removed unless you turn it off. The file system supports file flow, so you don't need to worry about problem by accessing large files. This will make the input response data stored in a temporary path without any file extension. After 0.7.0 iOS and android upload progress also supported. ASCII Encoding has terrible performance due to the lack of implementation of arrays typed in JavaScriptcore, and limitation of the native react structure, to convert data to array byte JS spend a long time. When you pass a file path to the library, remove the prefix File://. Mother's digitization The Mother Scanner checks the file and is categorized by MIME type given, if the type mime is not specified, it will try to solve the file using its file extension. You have to add some options to config. Transfer Encoding After 0.9.4, Chunked Transfer Coding is deactivated by pattern due to some service provider can not bear transfer transfer. Then, adding permissions to Androidmanifest.xml will not work for Android 6.0+ devices. It is recommended to use file storage instead of base64 if possible. The following grade shows how much more storage by loading storage data than the coded string base64 on iPhone 6. Cache File Management When using FILECACHE or path options along with the search API, the data response automatically store file system. Cancel Request After 0.7.0 it is possible to cancel an HTTP request. Changes View release notes Development If you are interested in hacking this module, check our development guide, there may be some useful information. Version of rn-fetch-blob 0.10.16 is incompatible with native react 0.60 and above. If you replaced the window. XmlHttpRequest for some reasons (for example, making Firebase SDK work), also affect how the official search works (basically should work very well). Use the specific path of the file if you prefer a particular file path instead of randomly generated, you can use the option of the way. It is worth mentioning that the request http uses cache by pattern, if you will disable it simply add a Cache-Control Chew. 4, we deactivate chunked transfer by pattern, if you will use it, you must explicitly define the transfer-encoding.
